The referral process:

Referrals to the Community Care Hub are best suited to families with a case about to close and families deemed low-risk. The process starts when a social worker fills out a short referral form. A Community Care Coordinator from one of 16 organizations will contact families directly. This process is secure and confidential.

The hub connects clients with organizations most aligned with their lived experiences, cultural, and linguistic backgrounds. This builds deeper levels of trust, which is critical for effective engagement and support.
